Dear Conference Participants,

We are delighted to welcome you to our lecture day. Natural refrigerants are more and more regaining the interest of manufacturers, contractors, suppliers, and operators. They are energy-efficient, do not contribute to the depletion of the ozone layer, and have no or only negligible impact on the greenhouse effect. Our lecture day sets out advanced technology in the field of natural refrigerants and shares success stories with end-users, planners, engineers, and other interested parties.

This year the presentations will set a special focus on foodstuffs – supermarket refrigeration will be a main part, showing companies' refrigeration concepts, applications and philosophies. Other application examples will include the food and beverage producing industry focusing on refrigeration or combined cooling and heating. Furthermore, we will have a look at the current situation of natural refrigerants and their future developments in the GCC and the Middle East region with an introduction of Turbine Inlet Air Cooling applications.

eurammon's function is the creation of a platform for information sharing and the promotion of natural refrigerants with the aim of a sustainable industry. In the initiative companies, institutions and individuals have joined forces to work towards the increased use of natural refrigerants. We wish all participants a fruitful exchange of ideas and a successful conference.

Best regards
